Fatal Accident

CHICAGO, Aug 14—At the Clifton House, Ontario, Herman Weigel while walking on the bank of the Niagara river just below Horse Shoe Falls fell over and was instantly killed.

Steamship Ashore

NEW YORK, Aug 14—The steamship [illegible] from Liverpool is ashore off [illegible] Island. The cabin passengers have been brought to New York. She lies in eight feet of mud but it is believed that she will be got off as soon as some of the cargo is removed.

Gold and Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug 14—Gold closed [illegible]; money 1½. Governments dull and steady; stocks dull and strong; bonds [illegible] bonds [illegible].

First Wire of the N. Y. and Brooklyn Bridge Across

The first wire of the river bridge was stretched across this morning. About [illegible] people were present and considerable enthusiasm manifested.

[illegible] Dispatch Confirming the Report of the Fight.

CHICAGO, Aug 14—R. Williams, Assistant Adjutant General at Omaha, telegraphs to Gen Sheridan's headquarters here that the following had just been received by him:

FORT LARAMIE, Wy, August 14, 1876.

The report of Gen Terry's fight with Sitting Bull is confirmed through Indians coming into Spotted Tail [illegible]. They report a heavy engagement and a [illegible] for the Indians with great loss and Sitting Bull [illegible]

[illegible] Miners Coming to this Country

NEW YORK, Aug 14—About fifty English miners arrived [illegible] day from the mining districts in [illegible] and Cornwall, England. They leave to-night for Virginia City under contract with some English mine owners.

CONGRESSIONAL

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Aug 14—Spencer submitted concurrent resolution providing for the appointment of a joint committee to consist of three Senators and three members of the House to prepare a suitable form of government for the District of Columbia, and [illegible] at the next session of Congress. It [illegible] the committee to sit during the recess.

[illegible] called up House bill for the sale of saline [illegible] several amendments were agreed to and [illegible]

[illegible] called up the House concurrent report [illegible] the 16th and 17th joint rules for the re[illegible] of the session. They provide that no bill [illegible] one house shall be presented to the [illegible] either of the last days of session and that [illegible] resolution which passed House and Senate shall be [illegible] to the President for approval on the last day of the session. He submitted an order [illegible] returning the resolution to the House [illegible] that since House had not notified [illegible] of the rejected joint rules for this session [illegible] by Senate Jan 20 and transmitted to [illegible] there are no joint rules agreed to.

[illegible] submitted the conference report on the [illegible] appropriation bill. After a long debate it was laid over.

[illegible] moved to take up the proposed additional [illegible] prohibiting the appropriation of [illegible] the support of sectarian schools; agreed [illegible] nays 15.

[illegible] then took place which lasted until [illegible] of the morning hour, when the [illegible] was held over and the Senate proceeded to [illegible] the unfinished business, bill to carry [illegible] treaty into effect.

[illegible] Hawaiian bill came up. Norwood continued his remarks against it. He argued there was no inducement for acquiring the Hawaiian [illegible] an outpost in the Pacific ocean. It had been [illegible] that the population of the islands had [illegible] declining, and if the bill is passed [illegible] would naturally fall into our hands. [illegible] the decrease of the population was at [illegible] estimated and said even if it was at that rate it would take fourteen years with the present [illegible] of 40,000 for it to dwindle down to 30,000. He quoted from the works of Mr Nordoff at [illegible] show the condition of affairs in the Hawaiian islands, and argued that the production [illegible] south.]

House.

[illegible] met at 10 o'clock in continuation of Satur[illegible]

[illegible] of Packer the Senate bill authorizing [illegible] of the Treasury to use the surplus of moneys heretofore appropriated to public [illegible] at Harrisburg, Pa., was taken from the [illegible] table, and after explanation by him [illegible]

[illegible] addressed the House on the condition [illegible] in Mississippi and gave an em[illegible] to statements made in the Senate and [illegible] that there had been frauds committed in [illegible] election in that State and said that no [illegible] had been charged on the part of the [illegible] of Mississippi or of the election judges.

[illegible] member elect from Kentucky [illegible] vacancy caused by the death of Parsons [illegible] himself and took the oath of office.

The modified Senate bills for printing the report of the Belknap impeachment trial and for the appointment of a joint committee to frame a government for the District of Columbia were passed.

[illegible] made a speech in advocacy of the [illegible]

[illegible] submitted the report of committee of [illegible] on the Indian appropriation bill. The [illegible] agreed to without discussion.

[illegible] then proceeded to make some general [illegible]. He gave an account of the House reduction policy, charging the Senate with defeating [illegible]. He arraigns the Republican [illegible] extravagant and obstructing economy. He [illegible] the efforts of the Democratic House for [illegible] civil service reform, and defended [illegible] action on the reduction of the President's [illegible]. The Senate had urged against the reduction of Congressmen's compensation and abolishing the franking privilege, but the [illegible] voted since the bill was passed to restore the franking privilege. He recapitulated the [illegible] bills, and said the estimates of the departments for the year were $203,000,000. The committee's appropriations reported $137,000,000; the [illegible] raised it to $139,000,000 and the Senate raised it to $158,000,000. The bill enacted $148,000,000 [illegible] $175,000,000 last year, a saving of [illegible]. Randall said his opinion expressed [illegible] session that expenditures could be reduced from thirty to forty millions was fully [illegible]. The House had been compelled [illegible] to the Senate ten and one half [illegible]. He hoped and believed that next year [illegible] concurring with the House and Chief Magistrate acting in harmony with [illegible], a further reduction of ten million [illegible]. These figures need no elaborating; [illegible] result the majority reasserted its claims of having faithfully discharged its duties to the [illegible] it was impossible to predict the exact date [illegible] but it would certainly be expedited each year and this he believed was the only way to speedy resumption.

[illegible] concluded his side of the House [illegible] applauded him.

[illegible] of the appropriation committee said the [illegible] had entered on duty intent on reduction [illegible] but not unpractically. Many [illegible] could be saved, but further reduction would leave a deficiency for next year. He intimated that the purpose of reduction was to pay the cotton claims of the South next session. The House had not reduced taxes which would [illegible] by the people. The House [illegible] repudiated the judgments of the [illegible] claims by not appropriating [illegible]. He declared the deductions should be [illegible] Springer's table of reductions as follows: [illegible] addition $[illegible] reduction claimed on $466,000; items in postoffice bill $[illegible]; bill of last year $[illegible]; [illegible] appropriating indefinite appropriations for assay offices; the judgments of the court of claims $[illegible]; centennial appropriations $1,500,000; post [illegible] New York $227,000, and a few others; the total $14,719,632. Most of the remaining saving was in violation of trust, an injury to [illegible] and otherwise to the disgrace of the nation. The reduction of a million and a half in the navy bill did great injustice to the navy, and that over $[illegible],000,000 was the postponement of army bill, over $1,000,000 postponement in the sundry civil bill; over $1,000,000 was postponement. The [illegible] of $1,000,000 was due mainly to the substitution of silver for fractional currency. The actual reduction he put down at $10 [illegible] and post[illegible] at $[illegible]. Of the $10,000,000 saved the main part was obtained by crippling the government.

Never had the Democrats [illegible] facts. They had made [illegible] reform; so far as [illegible] saving was concerned the [illegible] had been an absolute failure. He recapitulated the [illegible] and claims of the Republican party.

The Speaker presented the President's message [illegible] the river and harbor bill [illegible] had been compulsory to expend the money appropriated therein he would have [illegible] he would take care that [illegible] be expended on needless work. The message referred [illegible]

[illegible] moved that it be referred to the committee on commerce of which he was a member. He said the President assumed that his personal judgment and discretion were to determine how far the appropriations of the bill were to be applied [illegible] referred to in the bill. This was an act [illegible] personal government. He regarded this remarkable document as such a departure from the constitution and such an avowal of the President [illegible] obey the laws that he thought the people's representatives should have a chance to dissent from the message.

[illegible]ard also criticised the message as in keeping with the President's idea expressed after the Franco-German war that there was a similarity between the American republic and German empire. The President plainly announced that he intended to nullify the will of the American Congress. He favored the proposed reference.

[illegible] the message as merely suggest[illegible] [illegible] bill hastily passed in [illegible] perfections which [illegible] The country's reformers to make right [illegible] interests of the country. He assailed ironically [illegible] billing [illegible] character. [illegible] the message. He [illegible] the Southern [illegible] coming [illegible] House with reform on their [illegible] glory [illegible] into its bill appropriations for works not national. He reminded his hearers that the improvement of rivers and harbors never had been a Democratic policy. [illegible] vetoed every such bill and under Buchanan not a dollar was spent for that purpose.

WASHINGTON CITY.

President Grant at the Capitol.

WASHINGTON, Aug 14—President Grant arrived at the Capitol at noon to-day, accompanied by the Attorney General, the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of the Interior and his private secretary. They will remain in the President's room during the day for the examination, approval or disapproval of the bills.

No Action on the Post Route Bill

The House committee on postoffices and post roads took no action to-day on the post route bill which was referred to that committee on Saturday. The bill was amended in the Senate by adding a provision for the fast mail and franking privilege [illegible] and it is understood that the House will non-concur in the amendments. This is indicated by the action of the House in referring the bill to this committee which will not be called again this session to report on a single subject. This will prevent them from reporting anything outside the regular bill.

No News at Headquarters Confirming the Report of the Sioux Fight.

WASHINGTON, Aug 14—On inquiry at army headquarters to-day it is ascertained that nothing whatever has been received confirmatory of the report of the Sioux squaw that a terrible battle had taken place between Gen Crook and the Sioux Indians and that the latter had been almost annihilated. While hopes are expressed that the report may prove to be true the story is considered doubtful.

Adjournment of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Aug 14—There is some talk among a few prominent Senators to amend the House resolution so as to provide for final adjournment at 1 o'clock to-night, but it is not probable the majority will consent to fix an earlier date than to-morrow or possibly Wednesday.

Hawaiian Treaty Bill Passed

WASHINGTON, Aug 14—Senate by a vote of yeas 29, nays 12, passed the bill to carry into effect the Hawaiian treaty. It passed without amendment.

Rumor that Disraeli Intends to Resign.

LONDON, Aug 14—The Scotchman says a trustworthy correspondent informs us that Disraeli's elevation to the peerage is the first step towards his resignation of the Premiership, not now, but before the beginning of the next session. Earl Derby is mentioned as the new Premier.

English Harvesting Commenced

LONDON, Aug 14—The Mark Lane Express says harvesting is everywhere in progress. Recent showers have benefited the pastures and root crops without damaging the grain. Farmers in many districts of England and France are disappointed in the wheat yield, which is less than expected, although pretty good. Oats will likely be somewhat short. Prospects of the pea crop are favorable. Local trade is dull and likely to remain so until the result of home and foreign harvests are definitely known. The supplies of foreign wheat are heavy. The weather has also depressed the market. Sales are only practicable at a decline of a shilling per quarter and business has been small. Large arrivals of maize and oats caused a fall of 6d on the spot, but forward shipments of maize are steady. The provincial markets have been quiet and firmer because less influenced by foreign supplies. Some few cases of slight advance have occurred. The floating cargo trade has been dull at a decline of 1s per quarter for wheat.

There is a kind of a general muss going on at Empire City in which a Mrs Phillips and her son and daughter, W A Luse, P Durgee, J C Manning and others, are implicated. Those named above have all been charged with riotous conduct and arrested. It appears that some of them at least were very anxious to slaughter a doctor named Mackey, but why does not clearly appear. Examinations are going on in the courts.

The contract entered into by those who bind themselves to ship wheat from Albany to Portland by Capt Cochran's proposed line of boats is substantially as follows: "We hereby agree to obligate ourselves severally and separately in bonds to Capt J W Cochran & Co to furnish them the amount of freight set opposite our respective names, for transportation from Albany to Portland, Oregon (to be landed on any wharf the shippers may designate) between the dates of November 1, 1876 and June 1, 1877, for which service we separately and severally contract and agree to pay ten cents per bushel for grain, or three dollars thirty three and one third cents per ton unto the said J W Cochran & Co, and we separately obligate ourselves to furnish the amount of grain for shipment, and in the manner indicated, and failing to do so within those dates become liable for the amount of freight money as hereinafter indicated at rates as above."

Mormon Preacher in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 14—Joseph Smith, son of the Mormon prophet, preached to a good audience at the hall of the Grand Army of the Republic last night. The address was devoted mainly to the exposition of the Mormon faith, with the declaration that the speaker was opposed to polygamy and believed his father was also, which statement elicited an interesting discussion with a member of the audience. Smith claimed to have a party among the Mormons of about 1[illegible],000 in his favor and opposed to Brigham Young.

GLASS BLOWING

We entered the glass blowers building and found several fiery furnaces all doing their hot duty as if they did not know that the mercury stood at 96, and men with their sleeves rolled up were rushing round in the performance of their labors as if they enjoyed life at fever heat. We walked up beside of a machine which we found was for making pressed glass salt cellars. Every few seconds a man bearing a long iron rod came up carefully balancing a molten ball of glass on the tip, which he gracefully held toward the man presiding at the machine, and he lanced first one little iron mold and then another and carefully snipped off into them with a pair of large shears just enough of the red hot semi liquid glass to fill it. Then with the serenity of long habit he put iron covers on them, passed them under the presser of his machine, drew them out again and deftly took out two perfect little salt cellars, some parts of them still red hot, and laid them down in a box of fine white sand at his side, upon which there immediately appeared a small boy looking nearly as melted as the glass had been only a moment before, and with a preternatural rapidity whisked the little dishes up with an iron claw and vanished, and the next time we saw the salt cellars they were on the counter looking mild and cool as blocks of ice. The gravity and dexterity of the two men and the boy, and the way they did not burn their fingers when it seemed inevitable, impressed us greatly, and our young gentleman followed the grave boy with eyes of admiration.

Next we came to the glass blower [illegible] and [illegible] we admired the way in which the pressed glass was made [illegible] here, when [illegible] the skill in handling was shown. The [illegible] stood at a counter with two [illegible] shooting their [illegible] little tongues at each other from under small tin horns. [illegible] the [illegible] flames [illegible] a small [illegible] on which he [illegible] glass tube exactly where it would catch the hottest of the heat and [illegible] turning it around with an even gentle movement until it was ringed with a [illegible] into this [illegible] blew [illegible] [illegible] the boy was dying to ask [illegible] bit of [illegible] glass [illegible] —Oh [illegible] and he gave a shake of the head which told of many crisp experiences as he [illegible] the hot glass [illegible] with spots of white from the bar in his hand. Then he took a red bar and [illegible] the same with that and with a kindly look at the boy said [illegible] Now watch [illegible] and then holding the tube to his mouth he blew till it swelled to a great round bulb and then with two crafty turns and a [illegible] around which the [illegible] arranged themselves [illegible] in a perfect spiral pattern. [illegible] was the [illegible] and we waited to [illegible] him shape the standard. [illegible] the other [illegible] adjust the [illegible] the correct [illegible] of which [illegible] like a peculiar pair of scissors cut into the little [illegible] the dam [illegible] around the edges with a [illegible] that turned them out flat, and in a moment the little vase stood before us perfect, the stand and the body [illegible] with red and white, and the [illegible] made to flare at [illegible] by a movement similar to that which had spread out the standard. Our small gentleman was ready to shout with delight and would have stayed there all day but that Penelope caught sight of a little steam engine on a shelf near by working away furiously and entirely made of glass, walking beam, boiler, rods, cylinders and pistons, and sending a cloud of steam out of its pipe with as important an air as if it had 1000 horse power. Near by a man sat behind a counter with a great number of very dirty looking goblets before him and a tiny little wheel revolving swiftly in the air just high enough for him to reach easily. We watched to see what he would do. It seemed to us as if the goblets needed washing more than anything else. But no, he took one up, rubbed what seemed to be a little mud on it as if to make it more dirty, put a little of the same mud on the edge of the wheel and held the goblet against it. In a moment we saw that he was shaping a leaf, and in a very short time and after repeated applications of the mud there was a wreath of leaves cut on the glass forming a place for a letter or a word. Our boy longed to see the name of Penelope shining in such a frame, but considerations of the ease with which glass is broken prevailed.

THE ANNEXATION QUESTION

From the Seattle Intelligencer

SEATTLE, July 2[illegible], 1876.

Ed. Intelligencer: The Walla Walla Statesman says that nine out of ten of the inhabitants of Walla Walla valley are in favor of having that part of our Territory annexed to Oregon, and that upon the reassembling of Congress in December next "the 1st of January should mark the annexation of Walla Walla valley to the State of Oregon."

That this desire is reciprocated by the people of Oregon I have good reason to know, for during a recent visit to Portland I took occasion to ascertain the views of leading men in that city. Moreover it is intended by the Senators and members from that State to push the enterprise through during the next session of Congress.

The efforts of one single delegate will be powerless to prevent it, and we will find ourselves consigned to a condition of puny provincialism, which no American citizen of any spirit will submit to any longer than it is possible to avoid it by removal elsewhere. The admission of the remaining portion of the Territory into a State will be postponed so far into the future that but few now living will ever witness it. The scheme as now presented must be defeated. This can be done in one of two ways.

First, let Eastern Oregon, Eastern Washington, and that part of Idaho lying north of the Salmon Mountains be constituted the "Territory of Washington," and that part lying west of the Cascades be annexed to Oregon as an equivalent for loss of eastern territory. There would be but little if any loss to Oregon of population, and the new territory would gain immensely in the mere compacting of a people into a home government with similar industrial pursuits and mutuality of interest. Thus the desire for a government nearer home would be gratified, and with Walla Walla as the capital—center of a fertile province—it would not be many years before the new State of Washington would be admitted into the Union. Indeed, with a population much greater than Nevada has, Congress might admit her ere the centennial year has gone, thus crowning the century with the glorious name of Washington.

The advantage of this change to Oregon would be very distinct. It would make her a more pronounced Pacific coast State with an ocean line nearly as long as that of California. It would add immensely to her political and territorial power, and bring together under one government a compact people with similar tastes, like pursuits, and common interests.

Second. A still better plan would be to annex the whole of Washington Territory to Oregon, providing in the act, as in the case of Texas, for the admission of that part lying east of the Cascades as a separate State whenever a fixed minimum of population should be reached.

This would at once make Oregon what she ought to be, a balancing power upon the Pacific coast. Now she is but an outlying province (commercially) of California. With this accretion of population she would be entitled to two members in the lower House, and thus double her political strength.

She would own and foster into living force the mineral and manufacturing resources of the Puget Sound basin. She would tie together with bands of iron the sources of the Willamette and the waters of the Sound—the agricultural wealth of the Willamette valley and the timber, coal and iron of the Sound. The Columbia with its wealth of fisheries would be all hers and under her control to foster and protect that important industry.

The desire of the people of Walla Walla to be separated from us is a very natural one. They are far removed from the capital and there is but little commercial and no social intercourse between the people of the two sections. The Cascade mountains present an almost impassable barrier to any practicable interchange of products and would seem to mark a natural boundary between different governments and people.

A similar state of things exists even in Oregon, where the people have no complaint to make of the evils of a provincial government. The people of Eastern Oregon have and do constitute a sort of outlying province, and I doubt not would even prefer a territorial government nearer home than their present condition. Anyhow the prospect of a home State government in the near future would arm them to endure provincialism for a short time.

I do not wait to dispute [illegible] or population, nor do I stop to calculate or argue; there will be time enough for that when the probable protests of officials are heard. I only know there is pressing need for immediate and intelligent action on the part of those [illegible] west of the Cascades. If we lose [illegible] we will be bound hand and foot for a long time, and might rather be subjects in an East [illegible] province than a ward for life under a territorial government.

DEMAND FOR A NEW DEPARTURE IN OCEAN TRANSPORTATION

ANTELOPE, Yolo County, Cal, Aug [illegible]

The following preamble and resolutions were passed by Antelope Grange No 98 [illegible] of [illegible] August, 1876:

WHEREAS, [illegible] the leading interest of the Pacific [illegible] are dependent [illegible] from the [illegible] which renders a diversity of [illegible] impracticable [illegible] wheat, of which grain there is produced annually an immense surplus which must from necessity seek a foreign market. It is estimated that California and Oregon will export [illegible] of wheat and barley of this season [illegible] there are in California and Washington Territory millions of acres of good wheat [illegible] land not yet brought into cultivation that will in the near future be [illegible] fields of waving grain; with additional area added to that already under cultivation we will have in a favorable season 1,000,000 tons for export to market; this amount of grain will require 1,000 ships, which at $[illegible] per ton freight will cost the farmers $20,000,000; the distance it will have to be carried is about 15,000 miles, having to cross the equator twice and to encounter the dangers of the tempestuous waters off Cape Horn, where storms ever abound and render it one of the most dangerous routes known to commerce; and

WHEREAS, The Suez canal has brought the rich fields of China within easy reach of the European markets, India with her [illegible], cheap labor and low freight, cannot fail to have a depressing influence upon the grain markets of the world, thereby inflicting a dire calamity upon the agricultural, commercial, and to a great extent all interests of the Pacific coast, to try to avert which would be the part of wisdom; our only remedy would seem to be a ship canal across the isthmus of Panama that would shorten our distance to market one half, reduce the number of vessels required for our grain one half, give us quick returns, save to us annually in the item of freight alone many millions of dollars, rapidly settle up the Pacific States with a desirable class of people and give new life and impulse to every industry; therefore be it

Resolved, That recognizing the immediate necessity of averting the threatening evils above mentioned we as members of this grange hereby express our decided conviction that this end can only be accomplished by the construction of a ship canal across the isthmus of Panama.

Resolved, That we believe it to be the duty, as well as to the interest of the government to encourage the building of such a canal and to retain control of the same.

Resolved, That we hereby call on our sister Granges and the representatives of other interests throughout the Pacific coast to fully consider this subject and to unite with us in asking our Senators and Representatives in Congress to use their influence to impress its importance upon the government.

Resolved, That we request our worthy master to bring this subject before the State Grange at its next meeting.

Resolved, That we send this preamble and resolutions to the leading newspapers of this coast for publication.

I F HUGHES,
Sec'y Antelope Grange, Yolo Co, Cal.

AT THE CENTENNIAL

PHILADELPHIA, July 23, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

One who has not visited the Great Exposition naturally thinks it would be the easiest thing in the world for a visitor to write some account of it. I should have entertained no doubt of being able easily to throw off a dozen columns or so of descriptive matter without labor and almost without effort, but after spending several days amid the wonders of the world's collected industry and art I reach a very different conclusion. The reason is that the impression produced by a general view of the exhibition is quite overpowering. Its magnitude astonishes the beholder. When he thinks of attempting a description of what is around him he feels quickly and soon is ready to admit his helplessness. His powers of perception and description are beggared by the very wealth of materials about him. It becomes a problem where to begin, for who can emancipate himself from the general effect that overpowers his faculties, and descend to minute particulars? Like Cassio, one remembers a mass of things but nothing distinctly. The old saying, Ignotum pro magnifico—the unknown passes for the great—is here reversed. For to no one at a distance does this world's fair seem in imagination to be half so great as it appears here to the actual beholder, and the more he sees of it and knows about it the greater does it become. No imagination is large or vivid enough to form an idea of its extent or variety. There is here a panorama of all that mankind has wrought. The thought and the work of thirty centuries are here localized. From the rude stone implements in the government building representing that antiquity whose remoteness baffles chronological science, to the marvelous products of modern inventive talent on exhibition in Machinery Hall, may be seen and read an impressive history of the development of the human race. Here its work is summed up. We get at the results of all that men have thought, or attempted, or done. The stone celt and the great Corliss engine are the extremes of a series which includes the whole sum of the industry and mechanism of man.

Now it might seem that nothing could be so easy as to write upon a theme of this kind, and indeed, it would be easy enough to blot a great deal of paper in giving one's reflections on the progress of art and industry and all that sort of thing. But how likely this is to run into the namby pamby style we all know. If the wing of imagination, as Mr Richard Swiveller would remark, be not clipped and [illegible] no feather, the writer will soon find himself far enough away from the Exposition buildings and his impressions vanishing into thin air, instead of being practically at work to give an account in plain and fitting style of what he sees about him. And yet this last he finds it nearly impossible to attempt and still more nearly impossible to execute. An essay in this direction speedily convinces him of his inability. A generalization, were it possible, would be meaningless. The subject is too vast. An endeavor to present details would be partial and unsatisfactory, and no one could ever complete it. On the average mind the impression undoubtedly is finer if the exhibition be viewed as a thing great, indefinable, indistinct, rather than by analysis or with an attempt at detail. To confuse and overpower the mind with a mass of great and indistinct images, the rhetoricians tell us, is a source of the sublime, and they prove it well enough out of Dante and Shakspeare and for that matter out of the Bible too. Most people go home from the Exposition with an indefinite idea of having seen something vast and infinite, but are able to particularize nothing. This goes to show that each person ought to see it for himself, for no description by another can present any idea of it. To see the exhibition is to dwarf the beholder and make him feel his insignificance. He begins to get a glimmering notion of how much has been done in the world without his agency, knowledge or help. Even the most conspicuous personages in history dwindle to nothing in comparison with the greatness of the race and its collection and aggregate achievements. One has but to visit here and open his eyes in order to get the most striking impressions of the majesty of man.

A poem by Johnson, which was once more generally read than now, opens with the verses

> Let observation with extended view
> Survey mankind from China to Peru;

but this would be much too narrow a survey for this exhibition. What countries are here and with what wonders of their industry and their art they are represented, it would be quite a hopeless task to relate. The greatest of our newspapers, though they have trained correspondents working in every department at the Centennial to furnish descriptive and historical accounts of the world's handiwork as exhibited here, are able to present with all their resources but poor and meagre details. Some countries, as Russia, are represented in almost every department, including that of agriculture. Others, as Spain, are represented [illegible] by specialties, but their specialties are usually of the first order of [illegible]. In nearly all departments Great Britain is [illegible]. In the fine arts, painting, in the products of the loom and of all her mighty [illegible] manufactories, in work of every description in iron, steel, wood, gold, silver, cotton, silk, wool and raw materials, in [illegible] and [illegible], in all processes and products that have been most useful in developing a sturdy civilization and have marked the industrial, commercial and warlike superiority of Great Britain during the last three centuries, our mother country has commanding prominence. One has but to view the specimens of the world's industry as shown here to see at once how large a place is held in every department of the vast field by the English speaking race. Both China and Japan have extensive and splendid displays. Their industry occupies a field to which they are practically without a rival. Their exhibit marks at once their wonderful proficiency in certain lines of art, and the weakness and incompleteness of their civilization as compared with that of the iron working [illegible] the earth. All their work is the product of patient manipulation [illegible] by ingenuity, but lacking in power of combination and in that robust energy which deems it possible and hesitates not to set the forces of nature at work to fashion the most intractable materials to the uses of the race. Of French art and industry there seems to be an inadequate display. Peru is represented largely by relics of her old civilization, the utter and ruthless destruction of which is an eternal reproach to Spain. Egypt has a fine display, in which her antiquities, the most interesting in the world, have some share. As might be expected of Italy, her pictures and statuary constitute the chief attraction that she offers. A fine collection of old Roman marbles, defaced by time but still informed with much of the beauty reflected from Greek art, is always sure of attention from the thousands who pass by.

But I did not mean to be beguiled into any attempt to enumerate or describe even the least of the collections. For the reasons stated at the outset the undertaking would not be practicable. In Machinery Hall even more than in the main building, one is overwhelmed with a new signification of the proverb that "Art is long." All inventive power of all ages culminates here. Here are the aggregate products and results of all human ingenuity and experience for multiplying labor and giving new directions to its forces. As in the main building we have the fabrics of labor, so here we see in operation the forces and processes by which these fabrics are produced. Passing from the building where you see the results of labor on exhibition to Machinery Hall, where you witness the processes by which these results are attained, you approach the inner sanctuary and behold the methods of labor and art, a vast workshop intermediate between the operations of nature by which materials are furnished and the great storehouse filled with the countless articles of workmanship fashioned to the uses of man. One sees on the one hand the mighty engine producing a spool of thread or weaving the most delicate ribbon, on the other hand driving ponderous machinery to twist beams of iron as green withes. Beautiful badges for the Centennial of the slightest silken texture are woven side by side with heaviest carpets; and from witnessing the process of making pins or watches you turn to the great lathe on which they bore and fashion the 20-ton gun to serve as a peace maker for a commercial and industrial age. On the whole it may be said that no part of the exhibition draws more attention than Machinery Hall. It is thronged daily by thousands, who are there able to see within comparatively small compass more than their eyes would ever rest upon though they should travel half a lifetime expressly to see what man hath wrought through inventive genius organized into telling intelligence and tireless energy to work beyond the capacity of human hands.

In Agricultural Hall there is a display of wondrous variety. The taste and care evinced in this part of the exhibition, and still more the vast extent of it, show that the interest taken in agriculture has risen in proportion with the growth and increasing attractiveness of other pursuits. Intellectual culture and the best results of thought, experience and labor are seen also here in the manifold productions of tillage and their general excellence. Not less in Agricultural Hall than in other parts of the exhibition do we find foreign countries competing with our own. Of course the fullest variety is not possible, for many of the productions of agriculture are perishable, and no country can exhibit all the products of its soil at one time. Our several States have clearly done their best to make creditable showings of their agricultural resources. And without boasting at all it may be claimed that Oregon is in the very first rank. You look through every collection in the building and fail to find cereals which can be put in competition with those of Oregon. Perhaps California comes next, but even California is far behind. Here is where you may settle the question by comparative examination. If Oregon shows her best, so do other States. A few days since a gentleman who was preparing notes for publication in a Pennsylvania paper, on a tour through the hall stopped at the Oregon department to examine what he saw. He remarked that he had just come from the Russian collection where undoubtedly was the finest wheat in the whole exhibition. He declared that he had never seen anything like it. His attention was then called to Oregon grain. Great was his astonishment. To make the comparison more striking Mr Ryan, of Portland, who is always in attendance and loses no opportunity to speak for Oregon, proposed to go to the Russian space in the building and bring some of the best specimens. He did so. The visitor no longer thought of saying in his correspondence that Russia was ahead. At first it was the intention of Mr Dufur to put the products of Oregon in competition only with those of the other States of our Union, but now he proposes to challenge the world, and it is easy to see, after making examination through the hall, that there are the best grounds for the assurance he feels. Correspondents of very many newspapers have visited the Oregon space, and they have invariably written the most flattering accounts of the fertility of our State as shown by its products. The Commercial Times, of Philadelphia, recently had an editorial two columns in length on the subject, and a great number of newspapers come to our friends at the hall with extended notices of Oregon in their Centennial correspondence. If abundant specimens of Oregon fruits were furnished for the exhibition the effect would be very fine. Our State is certainly being largely advertised through the display it makes, much more so indeed than could have been supposed, and the result will almost surely soon be felt in accessions to her population. We could count with positive certainty on such a result if there were through railroad communication.

The heat is so intense and oppressive as to greatly diminish the interest in the Exhibition. During the torrid weather which has now lasted four weeks and shows yet no signs of abatement or mitigation, everybody's attention is withdrawn to a great extent from other subjects and concentrated largely on the question how to make life at all endurable. No one thinks of finding comfort. At no hour of the day or night is repose obtainable. Grilling all day long under a sun blazing in a hot and copper sky, and sweltering all night in a stifling atmosphere super heated by radiation from walls and pavements made blistering hot by a summer's sun and never getting cool, one comes to the conclusion that there is a tendency in summer seasons over here to be decidedly too thawy, and the pilgrim from our western shores longs for the breezes that came to us at home wafted thousands of miles over the expanse of ocean and cooled almost to the temperature of the spray that rises from the rock beating surf at Cape Disappointment or Tillamook Head. Oregon's delightfully cool nights—what would they not be worth to the millions here who are reduced to the extreme of discomfort and weariness by the intense heat and are never refreshed by the cool, dewy rest which an Oregon night always brings.

The attendance is much diminished during the past several days, and multitudes are wisely postponing their trip till cooler weather sets in. September and October are expected to be the best months of the Exposition.

A Republican Territorial Convention is called to meet at Kalama, W. T., on Wednesday the 20th day of September, at 12 o'clock M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Delegate to the Forty Fifth Congress and to transact such other business as may properly come before it. The ratio of representation adjusted is one delegate from each county and one additional delegate for each one hundred Republican votes cast in the county at the last general election.

About fifty graders and pilers [illegible] are now at work on the Seattle and Walla Walla railroad. The work is advancing rapidly.

THE TERRITORIES

Mr Daniel Edwards, who has been employed in the Bellingham Bay coal mines for a few weeks past, was badly crushed a few days ago by the caving in upon him of a mass of coal while at work underground. Hopes are entertained of his final recovery.

The potato blight is described as affecting hop vines and other plants, not sparing even the weeds in White river valley, W T. No varieties of the potatoes are entirely exempt, though since the late refreshing rains they appear in general to wear an improved appearance.

A special dispatch from Judge Jacobs to Seattle announces that he has just secured a daily mail between that place and Tacoma. The people of the former place are highly pleased with the news. It has been a grievous injustice to them that such service was not accorded them long ago.

A little son of Hon J P Judson, of Olympia, while playing in the streets of Steilacoom, recently, was kicked by a horse in a most shocking manner. It seems that the boy took the animal to be very gentle and ventured to disturb its heels. The animal kicked out frightfully, the hoof striking the poor little fellow right in the face. His under jaw was left almost toothless, the front ones [illegible] being uprooted. The upper lip was cut [illegible] so wide that the doctor is afraid a portion of it will drop off before it heals. Also, the [illegible] of the nose was driven flat.

The Bellingham Bay Mail of August 5th says: "The a[illegible] roll of Whatcom county is now completed and ready for revision by the commissioners next week. The assessed valuation of property is put at [illegible] $510,000, an increase over last year of [illegible] $40,000. This increase should, for the [illegible] part, be attributed to additional [illegible] and not to an increase in valuation, [illegible] erty is generally reported at last year's fig[illegible] or in other words, this $40,000 represents [illegible] territory added to the list, to which title has been acquired from the government since last year's [illegible]."

TUESDAY MORNING AUGUST 15 1876

WHAT CAN THE PRESIDENT ALONE DO?

The Sacramento Union in the course of one of its less considered articles we have seen on the prospect of civil service reform urges that an earnest of the intentions of the parties to perform their promises should be given in a new departure in the methods of the campaign. The people should show the sincerity of their clamor for this reform by coming up heartily to the support of the candidate who will carry on the campaign without making promises of political patronage for political work that the candidate and the party taking that high ground will win despite the efforts of the professional politicians and hungry office seekers. The difficulties that stare any President in the face who is elected under the present plan of running campaigns is well stated by the Union which declares that it is absurd to suppose any President however firm and energetic, can single handed undo all that the party has been doing, during the campaign, or that he can encounter the consequences of stultifying all those his friends who have assisted him by promising patronage. This is true to a far greater extent than is realized by those who think all that is necessary to a realization of their ideal of a pure civil service is the election of an honest and firm President That is indeed an indispensable condition, especially in the inauguration of the reform, but the President who undertakes to make thorough work of it under the present system of politics will soon know what it is to have cast upon him all the odium that can be heaped upon one who is in a situation to serve the politicians and refuses to do it. A clear appreciation of this fact will not fail to show any one that the subject has not been fathomed in its depths, except by those who demand legal or constitutional limitations on the President's appointing power, for his own protection and to enable him to do his duty to the people Something—much, we are persuaded—may be done by the President if he be made of the right stuff, but after all the remedy must go deeper down than the election of the man for the occasion The President can kick out unworthy officers when he finds out their unworthiness and he can listen to the truth about those he has honored with positions of trust in [illegible] of stopping his ears and closing his eyes and insisting on their innocence when all the world beside knows them guilty. He can give an earnest and cordial support to the labors of his subordinates who endeavor to bring public thieves to justice He can refuse to appoint to office men of disreputable character as a reward for party service and he can refuse to decapitate an honest and efficient public servant because he happened to prefer some other man than the one elected for Senator In short, he can make the civil service tolerably respectable, or at least respectably tolerable But his efforts must, from the nature of the case and the vast number of places to be filled, and the interest of politicians to impose upon him, fall far short of perfection, or of that degree of success which would be attainable under a system which would free him from the pressure and the temptations of party politics and party politicians.

THE CAMPAIGN OPENING

The political campaign in this State opens up at last. Both parties are organizing for the contest by the formation of clubs and the usual methods of arousing the enthusiasm of the voters The Republicans seem to be awakening to a realization of the importance of the occasion At their meeting at Salem the other night the attendance was large and Republicans of all classes and wings seemed equally earnest in their purpose to do whatever may be done legitimately to place Oregon right before the nation by getting out the full Republican vote and giving the State to Hayes and Wheeler by a good majority Let the work go on now, without intermission The Republicans, we feel sure, have a majority in this State on national issues if they can get their entire strength out on election day. The dissentions which have divided the party in our local affairs and which have proved beneficial to the administration of our municipal affairs should not be allowed to enter into this national campaign There is no third candidate in the field nor any occasion to desire one Mr Hayes is such a man as ought to satisfy the Reform Republicans, being sound on the financial question and agreeing with them in the demand for a thorough reorganization and purification of the administrative branch of the general government Let him have not the mute acquiescence alone but also the hearty earnest support of the entire mass of Republicans in Oregon Thus may Oregon be put into proper relations with the reform Republican administration which is to begin on the 4th of next March and with Richard Williams to represent her in Congress she will have the proud eminence of one of the first States to arrange herself definitely and decisively on the side of [illegible] in the administration of the national government This will lay the foundation for thorough work in the next State election when it will be necessary to [illegible] out our State [illegible] Begin the work now [illegible] the harvest season will not [illegible] as soon as the press of harvesting is over [illegible] organization [illegible] the State.

[illegible] SHIP CHANNEL [illegible]

[illegible] made under the auspices of the United States government for the purpose of determining the feasibility of the undertaking, and though not impossible the reports of those having charge of the expeditions have not been such as to produce a general demand upon the government for the commencement of the work The last survey, if we recollect correctly, resulted in an estimate of the extent of the work to be done and the cost, and the conclusion reached was that [illegible] locks would carry ships over the isthmus and that an abundant supply of water could be obtained from fountains at greater elevation than the pass through which the [illegible] would be The enterprise would be not nearly so formidable according to this last report as the building of the transcontinental railway

It is not likely that the government will undertake this great work soon enough to make its completion of very great advantage to Antioch or Grange but the action of that body in one of the best wheat growing districts of California may possibly be the small beginning of an agitation of the subject from a new standpoint which will not cease till ships can sail from this coast to Liverpool without going by the way of Cape Horn and the South pole

THE EARL OF BEACONSFIELD

Disraeli one of the most brilliant men that ever sat in the House of Commons has been elevated to the peerage, and as Earl of Beaconsfield will, for the rest of his life sit in the House of Lords His absence from the Commons will be felt by all but regretted by few Although one of the most able men of his time as a debater, and perhaps as a statesman, he was personally disagreeable to many and a favorite with few The success of his career is due entirely to his talents, his confidence in himself and his indomitable pluck and perseverance His first attempt at speech making in the House was a complete failure but so far was he from being disheartened, as most young men would have been, he boldly declared to the members who were ridiculing and laughing at him that the day would come when he would make them listen to him and he has made good his boast Anyone who would have dared to predict on that day that the stammering young Jew before them would live to be Premier of England and the leader of the House of Commons, would have been thought a madman, and yet so it has been By persistent effort, in spite of every difficulty, he made himself the most dreaded debater in the House, the most brilliant speaker, the most adroit if not the soundest, statesman, the leader of the High Church Tory party and has now won for himself a peerage Here his career ends In the upper House he will be lost in honorable obscurity, and in the dull decorum of the Lords he will stagnate for the rest of his days

A report comes over the wires that Terry and Crook have encountered and whipped the Sioux At the same time comes a caution that the story is not reliably confirmed The sources of information from which the news comes is an Indian squaw and Indians coming to Spotted Tail agency Gen Sherman has stated that the first reports of Indians are likely to be true as they do not usually embellish the truth with fictitious additions until their first news has grown stale by repetition If this be true there is nothing it seems to us in the situation of affairs in the Black Hills country to justify a belief that the Indians have in this instance departed from their usual custom and lied ab initio A fight has been expected for some days past every one has been looking for just such news as has now reached us and it is not likely if a fight has occurred that Sitting Bull will have another victory to boast of The most improbable part of the story is that which states that Crook and Terry were both engaged but a mistake in the name of the General commanding the troops engaged might easily be made by the squaw or even by the Spotted Tail Indians The squaw might give one name and the Indians the other in speaking of the same fight

We have always entertained a very high opinion of General Sherman but his conduct in the matter of the application for a cessation of hostilities against the Sioux has pretty nearly broken down our faith in him He declines the modest request to give Sitting Bull time to recuperate his exhausted energies It must have been a terrible strain on the nervous system of that chivalrous brave to murder and mutilate the handful of men who went with Custer to their death and we see no good excuse for requiring them to go on fighting or fleeing as the exigencies of the case may require when a few short weeks of repose might enable him to reorganize his band of murderers fatten his stolen horses and perhaps secure arms and ammunition from the agencies with which to dispatch Gen Crook and his men By all means give Sitting Bull a show

The hearts of the San Francisco sugar refiners have been made glad by the passage of the bill to carry into effect the Hawaiian treaty and several vessels are about to be dispatched by them to the Islands for the sweet commodity in which they deal

Griswold Henry Prang A Wilson Geo. F. Greene, Willie Chapman J M Wilson, Aaron Dushwaler all of Portland Sam Adair, Astoria, Mrs J J Gallagher and family, San Francisco

THE SEASIDE HOUSE.—The crowded rooms of the Seaside House were partially vacated on Sunday last, several families who have spent five or six weeks at the hotel having arrived on the Bonita. All left with regret as the present season has been a delightful one Those who have been debarred the enjoyments of Clatsop beach for want of room will [illegible] avail themselves quickly of the present [illegible] unity to secure pleasant apartments at the hotel, which we understand was never so well conducted before

PATENT RECEIVED.—Mr Hampton Kelly, of East Portland, has recently obtained a patent for a new process for drying fruit etc, which was invented by him some time ago By [illegible] of this patent process cider can be con[illegible] and shipped anywhere and kept for a long time. The cider which has been con[illegible] by Mr Kelly's new method and [illegible] on exhibition at Philadelphia has [illegible] very general attention and elicited [illegible] complimentary notices

LODGE ORGANIZED.—Hon E E. Fanning G. W. C. T, for Washington county on the 5th [illegible], organized a lodge of I O G T [illegible] with thirty two charter applicants. Emma Smith is W. C. T and William [illegible] Lodge Deputy The Lodges at upper and lower Astoria are both prospering and rapidly increasing in numbers and [illegible] W. R. Dunbar, G. W. C. T has [illegible] P. H Fox, Esq., of Astoria, a State [illegible] for Clatsop county

[illegible]—Richard Nicoll, the man who was [illegible] with the smallpox over a week ago, died Sunday morning in the isolated building in which he had been removed It will be [illegible] that Nicoll, in a fit of delirium [illegible] from the second story of the City Hospital in East Portland, over a week ago, and [illegible] into the river. As his system was [illegible] shattered, it is scarcely probable that he would have survived under the most [illegible] circumstances.

[illegible] AND FESTIVAL.—A concert and ice cream festival will be given by Plymouth Sunday school at the church, corner Fourteenth [illegible], this (Tuesday) evening, beginning at 7:45 o'clock. The price of admission is fixed at only 25 cents and the ample [illegible] made, insure a profitable and [illegible] time A cordial invitation is extended to all friends of the school The proceeds will be used to defray the expense of repainting the building, etc

FROM THE CAPITAL.

SALEM August 11 1876

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Salem is quite fearfully and wonderfully quiet In fact the oldest inhabitant avers that he never knew the business circles of the capital more thoroughly depressed We can however comfort ourselves with the thought that we are not alone in our depression From all over the State comes up the cry of dull times Nor is this to be wondered at when our farmers are busy in the harvest field and seldom visit town The near approach of the Legislature predicts better times [illegible] Already do we hear the key note of preparation for that important event The hotels are busily engaged in arranging rooms and the Chemeketa has [illegible] already engaged [illegible] Private families are [illegible] in [illegible] to throw open their doors and there will be no lack of accommodation for members and lobbyists as well

THE POLITICAL CANVASS

Is opening up brisk and promises to be one the most exciting one that has taken place for a number of years Both parties are buckling on their armor and are resolved to do their level best to win Fortunately there is no third party in the field this year and there is every indication of a fair square fight for supremacy This is what we want and Republicans feel confident not only of electing Hayes and Wheeler but also of wresting our own State from Democratic rule or at least of showing by straws which way the wind will blow in our next State election The Republican party of Marion county are earnestly and thoroughly united on the issues of the day and will undoubtedly roll up a larger Republican majority than ever before and we hope to see old Multnomah stand by the flag as never before Preparatory to business the two political parties have been engaged for several days past in organizing for the campaign and two political meetings were held on Saturday evening last with that purpose in view

HAYES AND WHEELER CLUB

Posters calling a public meeting for the purpose of organizing the above club being thoroughly circulated, drew out a large crowd at the Opera House on the evening in question The Salem Brass Band furnished music for the occasion and no little enthusiasm was manifest even before the meeting was called to order Col C A Reed was elected temporary chairman and Maj W P Lord secretary The following committees were then appointed Permanent organization, Thos H Cox J C Peebles Geo W Lawson H M Thatcher and Jos A Baker constitution and bylaws Jno G Wright J J Murphy and Frank P Hodgkin with instructions to report on Saturday evening next Hon Richard Williams Republican nominee for Congress being present was called on for a speech to which he responded in his usual effective manner While he made no allusion to his own claims on the people he advocated those of Hayes and Wheeler in an able and most conclusive manner, dealing some heavy blows at the Democratic party as reformers(?) He was frequently interrupted by applause, and his address throughout was listened to with interest Col N B Knight was then called out and his remarks were right to the point and were enthusiastically received on every hand Dr Hall and Col Reed also made five minute speeches, and the meeting adjourned for one week It proved a most conspicuous opening to the campaign and will undoubtedly have its excellent effect in the coming canvass

TILDEN AND HENDRICKS CLUB

The unterrified Democracy to the number of perhaps fifty or seventy five, met at the Wigwam on the same evening, and organized a Tilden and Hendricks club with the following list of officers W J Herren, president Geo A. Cutting vice president W H Stiles secretary, V R Hyde, assistant secretary, and Thos H Cann treasurer Committee on constitution, J Walton Tom L Davidson, Thos H. Cann Order of business H D Boon, Geo K Shiel, John F Miller Finance, Geo A Cutting, Geo W Belt, Van R Hyde Arrangements W H Holmes, John B. McClane, J C Hutton Membership J P Cooley, Thos H Cann Louis Westacott and W H Stiles Speeches were made by Gov Grover Geo A Cutting and G K Shiel, and the meeting adjourned for one week

OTHER ITEMS

PASS HIM AROUND

PORTLAND Aug 14 1876

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Little less than a year ago there came to this city [illegible] the name and title of Dr Ellerton Welcome Aldrich This individual [illegible] established a practice [illegible] advertising, giving free drinks [illegible] and [illegible] in the [illegible] ostentatious manner This [illegible] appears upon investigation [illegible] In sudden departure from [illegible] [illegible] diploma from [illegible] M D We [illegible] the three years [illegible] Crawford county Pennsylvania [illegible] District Bible [illegible] distances in [illegible] among them [illegible] of Miss Susan Alexander [illegible] When he left this [illegible] to Alexander were from [illegible] here [illegible] having corresponded with Miss A [illegible] 1868 he returned to Pennsylvania in July and married Miss A on the [illegible] August at [illegible] the ceremony being performed by Rev Chas Kimball of the Central Presbyterian church of that city Very soon after Dr Aldrich and bride left for California where [illegible] one week they proceeded to Portland as above related On the 13th day of July 1876 Dr Aldrich departed this city ostensibly to visit a patient near Salem but really as has since been determined to take himself out of harm's way For it now appears that a vision of arrest for bigamy was troubling his peace The doctor had a taste for marrying respectable and innocent young women about as often as once a year and not having taken time to be legally rid of a wife whom he had espoused in 1874 was what so disturbed him in the midst of a lucrative practice that he felt compelled to leave it A correspondence between certain parties in California and the chief of Portland police together with other mutterings of the coming storm warned the gay doctor that it was perilous remaining on his native soil and sent him abruptly to British Columbia

The cause of this reasonable alarm was that Mrs Emma Louise Gould Aldrich his legal wife had discovered his whereabouts and was gradually withdrawing the veil from the eyes of Portlanders including those of the wife he had unlawfully taken in Pennsylvania It is a long story Suffice it to state the facts and give such evidence as shall place the doctor in his true light before the public Dr Aldrich was an orphan adopted by Ralph Gould Esq, of Elmira, New York, and by him sent to a medical college to be fitted for the profession he had a liking for Returning home from college he sought and won the affections of his guardian's daughter Emma Louise and after several years in California returned again to Elmira in 1871 and married this young lady taking her with him to the Golden State very soon after and this without intermitting his correspondence with Miss Alexander Eleven months they lived together but not long in any one place—the time being divided between San Jose Gilroy Round Valley Ukiah and Salinas City At the end of that time the doctor suddenly abandoned his young wife, sending her word that he had gone to South America It was at this time that he went to Pennsylvania after Miss Alexander

A correspondence having been established between the two ladies above named, they have been able to discover still another wife of the doctor's who for a reason not yet ascertained, procured a divorce from him in 1873 in Santa Clara county, California. Other rumors very damaging to his reputation as a man and practitioner have also been circulated

It seems incredible that it should have been possible for this scamp to have been in correspondence with both Miss Alexander and Miss Gould without being discovered by the first wife but so it must have been The second wife very nearly made a discovery, which is best related in her own words "Shortly after we were married I saw a letter from you (Miss Alexander) and I guessed by the contents that you did not know he was married and I addressed a letter to you asking if you deemed it right to correspond with a married man signing the letter Mrs Dr E W Aldrich Did you never receive it? The letter was intercepted and never came to hand To prevent any further awkwardness Dr Aldrich advised Miss Alexander that, having to settle up his business and travel about a good deal, he should not be able to write for some time, but that as soon as he could get ready he should come on to be married to her, In two months from that time he did come on as above related

To show what an uneasy Benedict this man is he was no sooner in Portland with his new wife than he began writing to an aunt of Mrs Gould Aldrich that he could not tell how dark gloomy and comfortless his life on earth had been for all these weary months since his separation from his dear Emmy and asking where she was These letters so imposed upon the credulity of those who had been accustomed to hold him in their esteem that they wrote to the deserted wife in California of these loving phrases and very nearly were the cause of deceiving her into reconciliation —she still being ignorant he was guilty of the crime of bigamy A letter from her inspired by these representations telling him of the birth and death of their child and asking him if he had obtained a divorce from her coming to the doctor after his flight was the first clue that Miss Alexander was able to get of the real facts in the case. She now writes from San Francisco that she is in possession of four letters from him since the flight two written at Victoria B C One of these precious epistles runs as follows

DEAR EMMA Yes I can truly say dear Emma for notwithstanding all that has past you are very dear to me and since I last saw you the world to me has been but a dark gloomy spot and my life a blank Of all things I could wish for there is nothing that lies so near my heart as Emma and she has not a truer one and could I know that your whole individual love your whole self was mine in every sense of the word I would not care for what people may say, or what may have or has happened in the past If you will come to me pet I will see you as soon as you can come and if you wish to be mine only you shall have your wish granted as far as in my power Come at once

WELCOME

This man is not the least obliging, to give himself up so easily to a lady wishing to be his only! Supplement this letter to a deserted wife with one to Miss Alexander, written three weeks before his illegal marriage with her after having solicited her to be married at once without preparation or notification to her friends

LONG LOVED DARLING.—Our little difference of thought this morning shall not make two lives forever unhappy for I have loved you too long, and well to give you up so easily Had you consented to marry me this morning and knowing your wish to wait until your school was out I could not have been [illegible] unkind is not to have granted your wish and I already had the thought in my heart when I told you that in less than 24 hours you would be glad that you had consented to become my wife this morning [illegible] be married until I could be with you all the time and my dear girl believe me [illegible] but I much wished to know how [illegible] and that your love [illegible] make some sacrifice [illegible] for me You cannot be more cautious in this life [illegible] after than I am and [illegible] both old enough to know [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

WELCOME

When a letter [illegible] weeping [illegible]

Dr Aldrich [illegible] bought [illegible] with [illegible] style [illegible] ing, his bank upon his person in the shape of a pocket well [illegible] which is said adds a little to [illegible]

wast It is a pity that he got out of the way of an arrest so easily but the public have it in their power to punish him with a just indignation and the scorn he deserves until under the providence of God the proper retribution overtakes him

MILWAUKIE August 11 1876

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Having read a letter in the Willamette Farmer concerning the Centennial Exposition my mind was forcibly called to a certain portion wherein was stated that Iowa had far the best exhibit of fruits that is better than any other State in the Union

If you have the space please let me say a few words through your valuable paper We know that the amount of green fruits from our young State is deficient at our great National Exhibition We know that Oregon is thousands of miles from this grand affair but should this discourage us? No never for our best varieties of fruits can be sent thus far with but slight damage The cost for sending fruit by express is enormous Cherries sent by us and weighing but 10 pounds cost $9 50 Why will our State not assume the expense and see that our fruits be properly represented? The Centennial only comes once in a hundred years and we will never behold the like of this again Why not avail ourselves of these splendid opportunities Now is the time for Oregon to compete with the world in fruits and her chances are fair to carry off the palm So far Iowa is ahead

Is it not worthy the notice of nations or are you not properly stimulated? In October the exhibition will be at its highest then is the time for you to open your fruit exhibit to the world and we venture to say will be astonished I feel satisfied that the fruit growers of Oregon will gladly contribute to the fruit exhibit providing the State will bear the expense This is proper and should be attended to as soon as possible Some arrangements should be made immediately so as to give fruit growers a chance to prepare their fruits

Oregon fruit growers let us do all in our power to urge the State forward to its duty We know that our fruit is too fine to forever rot on Oregon soil Let us strive to have a thorough exhibit of fruits open to the world in October Our grains beat the world why not our fruits? Hoping to hear from some of our most noted fruit growers upon this all important subject I am sir yours

Promise and Performance.

The proprietors of Hostetter's Bitters promise nothing in behalf of this famous tonic and regulating elixir which it will not perform No pretensions irreconcilable with common sense are made in reference to it but evidence of the most positive nature has been accumulating for over a quarter of a century in its behalf which proves it to be a reliable preventive and curative of malarial diseases an efficient and genial tonic and general corrective and specially valuable in cases where the bowels liver stomach or urinary organs are affected Debility the source from whence so many bodily evils spring is entirely remedied by the invigorative action of the Bitters which arrests premature decay and repairs losses of nervous and muscular power while improving the appetite and rendering digestion easy

THE FLOOD OF YEARS.

BY WM. CULLEN BRYANT.

A Mighty Hand, from an exhaustless Urn,
Pours forth the never-ending Flood of Years
Among the nations. How the rushing waves
Bear all before them! On their foremost edge,
And there alone, is Life; the Present there
Tosses and foams and fills the air with roar
Of mingled noises. There are they who toil,
And they who strive, and they who feast, and they
Who hurry to and fro. The sturdy hind—
Woodman and delver with the spade—are there,
And busy artisan beside his bench,
And pallid student with his written roll.
A moment on the mounting billow seen—
The flood sweeps over them and they are gone.
There groups of revelers, whose brows are twined
With roses, ride the topmost swell awhile,
And as they raise their flowing cups to touch
The clinking brim to brim, are whirled beneath
The waves and disappear. I hear the jar
Of beaten drums, and thunders that break forth
From cannon, where the advancing billow sends
Up to the sight long files of armed men,
That hurry to the charge through flame and smoke.
The torrent bears them under, whelmed and hid,
Slayer and slain, in heaps of bloody foam.
Down go the steed and rider; the plumed chief
Sinks with his followers; the head that wears
The imperial diadem goes down beside
The felon's with cropped ear and branded cheek.
A funeral train—the torrent sweeps away
Bearers and bier and mourners. By the bed
Of one who dies men gather sorrowing,
And women weep aloud; the flood rolls on;
The wail is stifled and the sobbing group
Borne under. Hark to that shrill sudden shout—
The cry of an applauding multitude,
Swayed by some loud-tongued orator who wields
The living mass as if he were its soul!
The waters choke the shout and all is still.
Lo, next a kneeling crowd and one who spreads
The hands in prayer; the engulfing wave o'ertakes
And swallows them and him. A sculptor wields
The chisel, and the stricken marble grows
To beauty; at his easel, eager-eyed,
A painter stands, and sunshine at his touch
Gathers upon the canvas, and life glows;
A poet, as he paces to and fro,
Murmurs his sounding lines. Awhile they ride
The advancing billow, till its tossing crest
Strikes them and flings them under, while their tasks
Are yet unfinished. See a mother smile
On her young babe that smiles to her again—
The torrent wrests it from her arms; she shrieks,
And weeps, and midst her tears is carried down.
A beam like that of moonlight turns the spray
To glistening pearls; two lovers, hand in hand,
Rise on the billowy swell and fondly look
Into each other's eyes. The rushing flood
Flings them apart: the youth goes down; the maid
With hands outstretched in vain and streaming eyes
Waits for the next high wave to follow him.
An aged man succeeds; his bending form
Sinks slowly, mingling with the sullen stream
Gleam the white locks and then are seen no more.
Lo, wider grows the stream, a sea-like flood
Saps earth's walled cities; massive palaces
Crumble before it; fortresses and towers
Dissolve in the swift waters; populous realms
Swept by the torrent, see their ancient tribes
Engulfed and lost, their very languages
Stifled and never to be uttered more.
I pause and turn my eyes and looking back
Where the tumultuous flood has passed I see
The silent Ocean of the Past, a waste
Of waters weltering over graves, its shores
Strewn with the wreck of fleets, where mast and hull
Drop away piecemeal; battlemented walls
Frown idly, green with moss, and temples stand
Unroofed, forsaken by the worshipers.
There lie memorial stones, whence time has gnawed
The graven legends, thrones of kings o'erturned,
The broken altars of forgotten gods,
Foundations of old cities and long streets
Where never fall of human foot is heard
Upon the desolate pavement. I behold
Dim glimmerings of lost jewels far within
The sleeping waters, diamond, sardonyx,
Ruby and topaz, pearl and chrysolite,
Once glittering at the banquet on fair brows
That long ago were dust, and all around,
Strown on the waters of that silent sea,
Are withering bridal wreaths, and glossy locks
Shorn from fair brows by loving hands, and scrolls
O'erwritten—haply with fond words of love
And vows of friendship—and fair pages flung
Fresh from the printer's engine. There they lie
A moment and then sink away from sight
I look, and the quick tears are in my eyes,
For I behold, in every one of these,
A blighted hope, a separate history
Of human sorrow, telling of dear ties
Suddenly broken, dreams of happiness
Dissolved in air, and happy days, too brief,
That sorrowfully ended, and I think
How painfully must the poor hearts have beat
In bosoms without number, as the blow
Was struck that slew their hopes or broke their peace
Sadly I turn, and look before, where yet
The flood must pass, and I behold a mist
Where swarm dissolving forms the brood of Hope
Divinely fair, that rest on banks of flowers
Or wander among rainbows fading soon
And reappearing, haply giving place
To shapes of grisly aspects, such as Fear
Molds from the idle air, where serpents lift
The head to strike, and skeletons stretch forth
The bony arm in menace. Further on
A belt of darkness seems to bar the way,
Long, low and distant, where the Life that is
Touches the Life to come. The Flood of Years
Rolls towards it, nearer and nearer. It must pass
That dismal barrier. What is there beyond?
Hear what the wise and good have said. Beyond
That belt of darkness still the years roll on
More gently, but with not less mighty sweep.
They gather up again and softly bear
All the sweet lives that late were overwhelmed
And lost to sight—all that in them was good,
Noble, and truly great and worthy of love—
The lives of infants and ingenuous youths,
Sages and saintly women who have made
Their households happy—all are raised and borne
By that great current in its onward sweep
Wandering and rippling with caressing waves
Around green islands, fragrant with the breath
Of flowers that never wither. So they pass
From stage to stage, along the shining course
Of that fair river broadening like a sea
As its smooth eddies curl along their way,
They bring old friends together, hands are clasped
In joy unspeakable; the mother's arms
Again are folded round the child she loved
And lost. Old sorrows are forgotten now
Or but remembered to make sweet the hour
That overpays them; wounded hearts that bled
Or broke are healed forever. In the room
Of this grief-shadowed Present there shall be
A Present in whose reign no grief shall gnaw
The heart, and never shall a tender tie
Be broken—in whose reign the eternal Change
That waits on growth and action shall proceed
With everlasting Concord hand in hand.

Gold Bars [illegible]

The week [illegible] Winter [illegible] years past has the supply [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] there are no takers, though [illegible] on the [illegible] the market [illegible] unfortunately taken at current rates [illegible] with fever [illegible].

Concerning the long continued dullness in all the departments of trade and the [illegible] the [illegible] commercial activity throughout the country the Chicago [illegible] says: "The newspaper men are as anxious to respond in comforting terms as a kind physician to a sinking patient. And hence during January we say the morning of hope will brighten with the breaking up of winter and opening of the spring trade, and then again during the depressing and enervating heats of July we try to cool the fevered brow and the anxious longing heart by saying certainly this long depression of business—this dead lock of trade will be broken by the rich harvests being gathered and the accumulating fruits of autumn ripening to fill every storehouse in the land.

Thus we have reasons and hoped for [illegible] and yet the dawn of that good time coming has not yet burst upon us. The wish has been so strong that it has doubtless begotten the thought not only in us but in the great majority of all our commercial and financial publishers.

The greater probability is that the good times so long anticipated will come—if they come at all—like the dawning light or springing of vegetation—so gradually and imperceptibly that few will be able to determine the exact time that the tide of affairs shall commence the early flood which is to bear us to fortune.

In the mean time bank deposits increase more rapidly than banks can profitably invest them and this state of things must necessarily continue for the next two or three months unless some tremendous convulsion of the nations shall call into special activity our manufactories or shall demand the unloading of our graneries and our stores of their provisions. In the mean time careful trading and economical expenditures should characterize every business man in the country."

The Tug Tacoma.

The proprietors of the extensive lumber mills at Tacoma have recently had built at San Francisco a tug boat which will be principally used in their business on the Sound. Concerning her trial trip at San Francisco on the 8th inst the Call says:

About 50 invited guests accepted the invitation of Messrs Ackerson & Co yesterday to go on the trial trip of their new tug the Tacoma. When the steamer left the Mission street wharf yesterday afternoon a stiff gale was blowing. The gallant little steamer started out and made the tour of the bay and after passing around Angel Island headed for the Golden Gate. The tug went out as far as the bar and showed her seaworthiness after which she returned to the wharf. The guests had a most convivial time and champagne flowed as freely as the water surrounding the craft. Dancing was indulged in by a large sing party to the strains of a good band of music on board. The tug Tacoma is owned by Messrs. Ackerson & Co and was built by Middlemas & Bull. She was launched about one month ago. She is not in the regular tug line and is independent. She is one of the finest tug boats afloat and her dimensions are as follows: Length over all 140 feet, beam 23 feet, depth of hold 12½ feet and her engines are 400 horse power. The commander of the Tacoma is Captain Hanson, who says that she is the pioneer of a fleet.

Domestic Produce.

Such is the activity demanded of the farming community by the harvest that but little time is found to devote to an investigation of the markets at present. From all we can learn concerning the crops as far as farmers are yet able to determine the actual result the yield of wheat is hardly as good as was anticipated a few weeks ago. In some sections as is well known the fall sowing was much less than usual as the rains set in early and continued steady. When spring came the rains still held on and the ground was too wet to sow until very late and as the prospect for good prices seemed very gloomy many farmers concluded not to sow at all while that which others put in seems not to have turned out quite as well as usual. There is little doubt however that the State will produce a surplus of fully 100,000 tons. As to prices there is no particular change in the local market though some sales are reported at $1 [illegible] per cental or five cents less than our former quotations. The Liverpool market appears to exhibit signs of depression again and may drop to extreme low prices if the weather and crop report should continue to favor a downward tendency. But little of the new wheat crop from the valley has reached this point as yet and exporters are doing nothing to call it forward rapidly.

In flour the market is steady considering the unstable condition of trade in wheat. Oats are in light receipt with some indications of a lessened demand and lower quotations. The new crop is reported as turning out pretty well. In mill feed hay etc there is no change, the local trade being fairly supplied with very little demand for shipping. Provisions as a rule are firm at our quotations which are for good merchantable qualities an attribute not applicable to all brought to market recently. Dairy products are if choice in good demand both for the local trade and for shipment. Eggs are wanted at 25 cents per dozen today and may be worth more tomorrow though this is not certain. Hides and wool are steady at quotations and fair lots are readily placed at current rates.

Of seasonable fruits and vegetables there is an abundant supply and prices are low even for the season varying with each day's supply and demand.

Shipping Intelligence

The steamship John L Stephens will be due from San Francisco to morrow.

LAND FOR IMMIGRANTS.

Choice Farms for Sale.

4,000 ACRES, IN QUANTITIES TO SUIT PURCHASERS.

230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem, all under cultivation and suitable for grain or vegetables.

246 Acres four miles south east of Salem on the railroad with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county with fine springs, consisting in part of the old Rector donation claim, on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The district [illegible] over [illegible] of this land measured ninety four bushels per acre, grain weighed and ground claimed by Mr Alfred Stanton of Salem.

2,700 Acres of prairie and light brush land with timber for farming purposes, bounded by the Willamette River for four miles, beautiful lake on the east, boat landings all along the river commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $1 to $2 per acre. This land will all be immediately resurveyed and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage and I cannot [illegible] any person or persons or colony of persons desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages as well as most favorably located with respect to market and transportation on more favorable terms than they can ever expect to realize again.

EASTERN OREGON!

For Farming and Grazing Purposes.

THESE LANDS ARE SITUATED IN WASCO, Grant and Baker counties and are offered for sale in such sized tracts, not less than 160 acres, as purchasers may desire. Here is afforded a most favorable opportunity to immigrants and settlers seeking homes and who [illegible] to purchase both on the most reasonable terms. These lands are excellent for farming and grazing. On most of the tracts no grubbing or other preparation of the land for plowing is required. [illegible] growth of [illegible] grass covers the uplands [illegible] of pasturage, while in the valleys and bottom lands the grass can be mowed and [illegible] into hay. [illegible] springs and streams water the lands in various locations. The [illegible] ranch [illegible] Fruit, particularly [illegible] grapes, apples, pears and berries as well as the small fruits can be grown [illegible]. ### Ordinance No. 1802

AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING CONTRACTS for certain street work.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. The Committee on Streets and Public Property are hereby authorized and directed to prepare plans and estimates and enter into contract with the lowest responsible bidder or bidders for filling that part of Front street at and adjacent to Harrison street washed out by the storms of the past winter, also to contract for putting in a suitable catch basin and wooden culvert at said point of sufficient capacity to prevent a like occurrence. Said committee are further authorized to plank or otherwise provide for travel across said fill, provided that the whole cost of the work at said point shall not exceed the sum of seven hundred dollars.

Section 2. The damage to said Front street having been caused by the acts of the City authorities the expense of said work shall be paid out of the General Fund.

Section 3. If in their opinion the interest of the city will be subserved thereby, the Committee on Streets and Public Property are authorized to include in said contract the grading of the Public Levee and of Park Blocks Nos. 1 and 10 and the streets adjacent thereto or so much thereof as they may deem expedient, the earth to be taken therefrom [illegible] filling Front street as aforesaid.

Ordinance No. 1800.

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE TIME and manner of improving that part of Pine street lying between First and Second street.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. The proposed improvement of that part of Pine street lying between the west line of First street and the east line of Second street as petitioned for by the owners of the property adjacent thereto shall be completed in the manner provided on or before the 15th day of September 1876.

Section [illegible]. The surface of the street shall be cleared of all timber, plank or other obstructions, sidewalks [illegible] the proper width and grade excepted. If [illegible] are not removed by the owners of the adjoining property within [illegible] days after [illegible] they shall be removed and become the property of the contractor.

Section [illegible]. The roadway shall be graded to the depth of [illegible] inches at the center of the street and [illegible] inches at the gutters.

Section [illegible]. A foundation course of broken stone shall be spread evenly over the surface in thickness of [illegible] inches at the center line of the street and gradually diminishing to [illegible] inches at the gutters. The stone shall be broken upon the ground and shall not exceed 8 inches in largest diameter. Upon the foundation course of broken stone a layer of gravel shall be evenly spread [illegible] a thickness of [illegible] inches at the center and [illegible] inches at the gutters. The street shall then be opened for travel for [illegible] days when a second layer of gravel shall be evenly spread of such thickness as will bring the surface of the street to grade. [illegible] and best [illegible] good quality free from cobbles or coarse gravel, the top course shall be of clean gravel, none of which shall be of [illegible] inches in diameter and free from loam or other impurities except clean sharp sand.

Section [illegible]. The contractor shall take entire charge of the work during its progress and shall be responsible for any loss or accident resulting from [illegible].

Section [illegible]. The Committee on Streets and Public Property are hereby authorized to advertise for and receive proposals and enter into contract with the lowest responsible bidder or bidders for the improvement specified in this Ordinance.

Section 7. The improvement shall be completed to the satisfaction of the Committee on Streets and Public Property and the Superintendent of Streets.

AGUE MIXTURE

A CERTAIN AND EFFECTUAL REMEDY

FOR

Fever and Ague, Intermittent and Remittent Fevers, [illegible]

This class of diseases so common in [illegible] of the World and especially prevalent [illegible] malarious districts and vicinage of [illegible] are almost invariably accompanied by [illegible] loss derangement of the liver, and [illegible] by a defective action of the digestive [illegible].

The mere breaking of the Chill is [illegible] toward completing a radical cure; the organs of the body, especially the stomach [illegible] liver, must be brought to a healthy [illegible] condition before a permanent [illegible] established, and this fact has been kept in view by Dr Jayne in his treatment of these complaints. The use of Jayne's Ague Mixture in conjunction with Jayne's [illegible] Pill as prescribed in the Directions [illegible] accompany each bottle, will not only

BREAK UP THE CHILLS

but restore the system, more particularly the liver and stomach, to a sound condition [illegible] prevent a relapse of Fever and Ague [illegible] oughly

ERADICATING THE DISEASE

and the best evidence of this is the [illegible] success which has always followed the administration of these remedies, as attested [illegible] certificates published annually in Dr. [illegible] Almanac and the wide spread popularity [illegible] Ague Mixture in those districts of the [illegible] State where the diseases, for which [illegible] intended, most prevail.

YOUNG MEN

Who may be suffering from the effects of youthful follies or indiscretion will do well to avail themselves of this the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. [illegible] will guarantee to forfeit [illegible] for every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage—remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last and are suffering some or all its ill effects remember that if you persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance, when the door of hope will be closed against you, when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the Doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill, or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.
